His Citizenship.

It is plain to the wayfarer man though a fool, that the registrar of the First precinct is not a native born citizen of the United States. This being true, it is but right to ask if he has been naturalized and if before the court, the registrar made the appointment he required an exhibition of the naturalization papers? A foreign-born citizen who applies to be registered must, before his request is complied with, exhibit the evidence of his citizenship, and certainly the registrar ought to have shown his "papers." Only this week a brother of the First precinct registrar was admitted to citizenship, which circumstance has suggested there might be a doubt as to the naturalization of the registrar himself.

Small-Pox.

Weber County is not yet free from small-pox. It is now definitely asserted that it has appeared at Harrisville, a settlement three miles north of Ogden; and that Postmaster Brown is the victim. The supposition is that he became afflicted with the disease through handling letters which had been sent from a point where small-pox was in existence. Mr. Brown's house is quarantined, and every exertion is being made to confine the disease to the present cases.

In North Ogden the disease still exists, but the utmost caution is maintained in order to prevent an extension, and in this the citizens are said so far to have been gratifyingly successful.

It is also reported to be infecting other points, but not in a general sense. Whenever a case appears prompt and energetic steps are taken to quarantine it. There are perhaps no greater number of cases in Weber County, but the fact that the disease is appearing in new localities gives rise to a trifle of uneasiness. With the maintenance of the present efficient methods, it is not likely that the disease will become general in any sense.

A HURRAH!

The Liberals Rally in Force in the District Court Room.

Last night a Liberal hurrah was held in the Third District Court room. For the first time, perhaps, in the history of this party, those in attendance filled up the place of the meeting. In every respect the gathering was a success. The hall was filled, and the enthusiasm pronounced. The object of the meeting was not for the transaction of any business, but for the manifest purpose of giving certain distinguished gentlemen an opportunity to talk. These distinguished gentlemen were J. R. McBride, P. T. VanZile, R. N. Baskin and one Kane. Mr. McBride, having been to Washington, of course spoke for the members of Congress; and if they did not authorize him to do so, he is the individual who can force them into doing just what he wants. Therefore, when he said that Congress had just commenced its work in Utah, and that it would follow up what had already been done, it is equivalent to the passage of other acts by that trifling body, which acts will be agreeable to the desires of the gent. in question.

P. T. VanZile holds the office of district attorney in this territory. He has been in the army, and told how a few men captured an army; the deduction being that the few of the Liberal party would force the whole People's party to surrender. After Mr. McBride, perhaps no man in the world has as much influence as Mr. VanZile; consequently, when he said that the Liberals would carry the election, that settles it, and the members of the People's party will yield without a struggle. He was very playful in his remarks, saying that for twenty years government had been trying to get the halter on the Mormon donkey, and having succeeded they would now lead it along. He also humorously said that the Mormon people were not American citizens, that they were not recognized as such; that they would wake up some day and ask if they had been dreaming when they voted for the People's ticket; that he would prefer to shake hands with a penitentiary convict rather than shake hands with a member of the People's party, whereupon some one quietly remarked: "Byron had said a fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind." Mr. VanZile was at his best—he spoke long and loud. His voice was very brilliant, his humor of the broadest and most ludicrous kind.

R. N. Baskin was called for, but didn't care to speak. When, however, some one in the crowd remarked that he had been baptized, Mr. Baskin, in behalf of the Mormon Church, indignantly denied the imputation.

The last speaker was one Kane. He is the same man who is said to be an aspirant for congressional honors. Members of his own party, in which he is such a zealous, if not an honest laborer, emphatically state that they will never vote for him, even if he is nominated. It will therefore be seen that his remarks could have no influence, hence it were idle to make further reference.

Governor Murray was loudly called for as soon as he introduced his countenance in the door, but declined by leaving. It is not known that his disgust for the speakers caused him to leave.

The brass band, which had paraded the streets in the evening, wound up the services, and the congregation departed.

Miss Olsen's Benefit To-night.

The programmes for Miss Agnes Olsen's benefit to-night have been well distributed about the town, and there is every prospect of a good attendance. It is seldom that a complimentary concert draws out such an array of talent as that which is billed to-night, and the appearance of so many artists may be taken for an indication of the esteem in which the benefice is held. The Tabernacle Choir Orchestra, Prof. Daynes, a quintette from Mark Croxall's Band, including Mr. Croxall himself, Prof. Wehler, the Mendelssohn Club, Miss Nellie Druce, the Arion Club and Miss Prissie Jennings make up the programme. Miss Olsen herself sings two solos and appears in a concerted piece.

REGISTRATION.

Progress Made on the Third Day.

There was a perceptible falling off in the registration on Wednesday, which may be due to the rush being over. If, however, estimates are right, less than two-thirds of the vote is registered. While it is true that a great many are deprived of the privilege of voting who have heretofore enjoyed that right, it is also true that large numbers have been added to the legal vote, not only of this city but of the territory. The registration on Wednesday was carried on with very little excitement or anything of special interest to note. Of course, there is a great deal of talk and complaint still heard, and one or two cases are especially referred to. A matter of common conversation on Wednesday was the case of an old lady named Sayers who was refused registration. The old lady was born in Massachusetts, is now 74 years of age and once boasted that her ancestors took part in the revolutionary struggles which made the United States a great nation. She was married to a man who never believed in polygamy, and never had but one wife. Independent of this fact he died before 1862, and the lady has remained unmarried ever since. The old lady's name was stricken from the list, and the registrar refused to replace it on the alleged ground, that, according to rumor she was once in polygamy; another alleged reason is that she had entered into the order of celestial marriage. Though the facts in the case were represented to the proper parties, it is not yet known that the wrong done her has been made right.

On Wednesday afternoon, a woman named Howells, who is the wife of a citizen, and otherwise properly qualified to register, was refused because she had not been in the United States five years. The validity of this ruling will be tested in the courts this afternoon. The case is referred to more fully elsewhere.

Everything continues quiet, and it is hardly necessary to urge people to register, as the interest now prevailing has aroused all entitled to register to the necessity of doing so. It is well, however, to caution all against delaying until the close of the week, as there might then be a rush, and as it is certain that no person can register after the close of the week. Those whose names are not in then will not vote at the November election. Hence the necessity of registering as soon as possible. The result of Wednesday's registration is as follows:

First—W. Showell registrar	175
Second—H. Pratt	290
Third—J. S. Lindsay	144
Fourth—A. Pratt	129
Fifth—Jas. T. Little	192

Total.....929
In the Fifth precinct the number of males registered by Mr. Little is 426, females 266; total, 692. For the three days the work in the five precincts has resulted in the registration of close on 2,300 persons, which is distributed as follows: First precinct, 675; Second precinct, 628; Third precinct, 570; Fourth precinct, 411; Fifth precinct, 686.

TEST CASES.

Everything Ready for the Discussion.

All arrangements have now been made for a full and fair discussion of the legality of the territorial enactment conferring on women the elective franchise. As heretofore stated, a common understanding has been reached through the attorneys for the different sides by which the cases, which have arisen in Weber County, and those that have arisen in this county will be discussed at the same time. It is understood that there is still another case in Weber County, besides that of Mrs. Littlefield, heretofore referred to, and in these two cases Messrs. Richards &amp; Williams will appear for the People's party. In Salt Lake County, so far, three cases have arisen: The one referred to on Wednesday morning, having come up in the First precinct in this city, by the refusal of Mr. Showell to register a Mrs. Westcott; one in Big Cottonwood precinct, where a lady named Brinton, was refused the right to register, notwithstanding the known facts that she is over age, is American born, is the wife of an American citizen, and has never lived in polygamy; and one case in the Second precinct, which arose on Wednesday. This lady is named Howells, and is the wife of an American citizen, has never lived in polygamy, and is prepared to take the oath; but she is herself foreign born, and is naturalized through her husband. Mr. Howells' right to register is undisputed, but the point raised against Mrs. Howells is, that while she is naturalized by her husband, yet she has not been in this country five years, the time prescribed by law to entitle a person to vote, and therefore the registrar declined to put her name on the list.

In all these cases, five in number, there are but two questions to be discussed: Is the law giving to women in this territory the right to vote a constitutional enactment? And does the proviso relative to naturalizing citizens, that they should have been in the United States five years before they can become citizens, apply to a woman who is the wife of a citizen? The attorneys for the People's party are inclined of the opinion that, were it not for the political disagreements now existing here, it would be difficult to find a lawyer who would question the soundness of the woman's suffrage act of the territory. They also hold that the five years provided has no reference whatever to a woman who becomes naturalized through her husband. It does not matter how long or how brief the period that she has been in the United States, the moment she becomes the wife of a citizen, and she is of the requisite age, she is entitled to a vote. Of course, the attorneys for the other side entertain views diametrically opposed to those advanced here, and hence it is that the case will come up to-day.

Judge Emerson will come down from Ogden this morning and about 1 o'clock arguments will commence in the court room before him and Chief Justice Hunter. The arguments will be closed to-day, as Judge Emerson has to return to Ogden on Friday, so the discussion will last probably not over 5 hours. The time will be distributed equally between the two sides. On the part of the People's party Messrs. Rosborough &amp; Merritt, Harkness &amp; Kirkpatrick, and Walter Brown of this city, and Richards &amp; Williams, of Ogden will appear; and the Liberals will, it is understood, be represented by Sutherland &amp; McBride, Marshall &amp; Royle, and perhaps others.

OGDEN REGISTRATION.

Grave Charges Against the Registrar and Deputies.

The Ogden Herald has the following:

"For the accommodation of business men" a special registration session was held last evening in the office of Messrs. McNutt &amp; Huribut. No public notice had been given of this arrangement, and had it not been for one of the "outsiders" who are on the inside track, it is very probable that the People's party would have had nobody there at all, and only the liberal party would have profited by the "side-show." As it was, some Mormons got wind of the affair and appeared on the stage of action, greatly and perceptibly to the discomfort of the parties present, especially of the chief registrar who could ill disguise his dissatisfaction at having the cozy family tele-tele interrupted by the cold gaze of strangers. Nevertheless three Mormons were allowed to register, which registering, by the way, differed greatly, both in solemnity and length of time, from the formality and dilatoriness of the public registering during the day.

It appeared evident that the idea was to expedite the business, hence the oath was not read, the substitute swearing done by half-dozen, etc. When the performance got bruited about town and more "Mormons" appeared on the scene, the registrar refused to continue—i. e., as soon as he reached the turn of "Mormon" applicants, he closed his books and left the office, but only to return immediately on the appearance of liberal applicants, whom he would "put through" and then repeat the previous modus operandi. We also understand that the Western Union Telegraph office was visited by the registrar and the "boys" put through.

It was told about the streets to-day that similar special sessions were to be held this evening and the following nights, but up to the time of this writing nothing positive could be ascertained.

One of the registration officers informed us that it was their intention to see that the whole list would be completed this week. For this purpose Mr. F. A. Shiels was appointed deputy registrar, to swear people in at the City Hall, in addition to Mr. Restall. Mr. Stephens, to-day, was at the Keeney House for some time, and it is stated that he makes it a point to visit friends to register them, which he may have a right to do, although his duty appears to be to exercise impartiality, making no distinctions as to party or religion.

The sooner there is some light in on the subject the better it will be for all concerned. Let's have a fair show and an equal chance. But very likely this is the very thing that some parties are anxious to obviate.

Mrs. Harkins Dead.

It will be with surprise and pain that the public will learn of the death, on Wednesday, of Mrs. George Harkins, the cause being nervous prostration. Mrs. Harkins was the daughter of Mrs. Amanda S. Childs, and was born in this city, where she has always been highly esteemed and respected by all who ever had the pleasure of meeting her. She was a most devoted wife and mother, and to a large circle of earnest friends her demise will bring inconsolable grief and create a loss which cannot be made good. She was the sister of Mrs. James T. Clabey, who died in March, 1876, and leaves, beside her husband, a little girl under 2 years of age. The friends of Mr. Harkins and Mrs. Childs will join in extending all the sympathy and consolation that can be offered in so great a cause for lament.
